

NOUVEL HAY MAGAZINE

SANS FRONTIÈRES

Nation de crise

USC Dornsife
Institute of Armenian Studies

NATION DE CRISE

Vendredi 14 mai | 12h00 PDT

REGARDE MAINTENANT

Les participants

David Babayan, ministre des Affaires étrangères du Karabakh

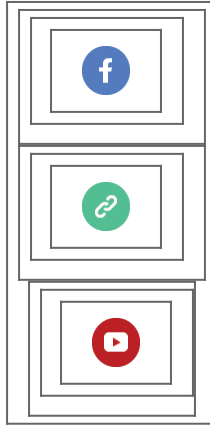

Laurie Brand, professeur de relations internationales à l'USC

Vicken Cheterian, professeur de relations internationales à l'Université Webster de Genève

Shushan Karapetian, directeur adjoint de l'USC Institute of Armenian Studies

Hratch Tchilingirian, professeur d'études orientales à l'Université d'Oxford

Modéré par: Salpi Ghazarian, directeur de l'USC Institute of Armenian Studies

The 2020 Karabakh War and the global Covid pandemic have altered the way individuals and institutions in the Diaspora act, and the ways in which they interact with Armenia.

But how? To what extent?

Have Armenia's perceptions, too, changed?

How did Covid impact other diasporas?

Did the war and its aftermath alter how the diaspora-homeland relationship is imagined? Can digital connectivity translate to more meaningful relations and outcomes?

Watch the first episode of NETWORK NATION on May 14, 2021 12-1:30pm PDT

armenian.usc.edu

USC Dornsife
Institute of Armenian Studies