PRESENTS A PUBLIC FORUM ON

THE ARMENIAN-AMERICAN PRESS IN PERSPECTIVE

ITS PURPOSES, CHALLENGES, AND FUTURE PROSPECTS

CO-SPONSORED BY THE AGBU YOUNG PROFESSIONALS OF BOSTON

Early Armenian immigrants created institutions in their new hometowns in America—among them churches, clubs, and political organizations which became focal points of Armenian-American life. Serving no less an important role were the newspapers they established which became a vital forum for the exchange of ideas, news from the old country, world events, community politics, and much more.

The Armenian-American press has endured and evolved over the past 125 years and more, reflecting and shaping the community it serves. Today, as all print media struggle for their existence, Armenian-American outlets face the same challenges as well as others unique to their market.

What role does the Armenian-American press serve today? Whom does it serve? What does its future look like?

Join us for lively discussion of these and other issues, moderated by NAASR Board Member Stepan Pilibian and featuring:
